ASC Relocates DC-Metro Office

Bethesda, MD (June 24, 2008) – The Adhesive and Sealant Council, Inc. (ASC) has relocated its offices. After 10 years on Old Georgetown Road, ASC has opted to move to a newer building with better amenities and a location more convenient to DC's Metro subway system. While ASC's address has changed, their e-mail, web, phone and fax information remain the same. The new mailing address is:

*The Adhesive and Sealant Council, Inc.
7101 Wisconsin Avenue, Suite 990
Bethesda, Maryland 20814*

The new office is less than a mile away from the old location and keeps ASC in the Washington, DC area, allowing the association to continue to monitor members' interests on Capitol Hill and to interface with other related trade groups.

"What we really want to communicate to our members," ASC President Lawrence D. Sloan stated when asked about the move, "is that nothing has changed, but our street address. ASC's mission, vision, and programming remain as strong and focused as ever."

The move was completed in early June and ASC is back to business as usual – serving members interests and representing the adhesive and sealant industry.

###

The Adhesive and Sealant Council (ASC) is a North American trade association dedicated to representing the adhesive and sealant industry. Incorporated in 1958, ASC is bound by the collective efforts of its members, and strives to improve the industry operating environment and strengthen its member companies. Today, ASC members account for more than 75% of the aggregate industry revenues, exceeding some $6 billion annually. The Council is comprised of 130 adhesive and sealant manufacturers, raw material and equipment suppliers and industry consultants. For more information about ASC, visit www.ascouncil.org.
