

BENDHEIM NAMES NEW COMMUNICATIONS MANAGER

PASSAIC, NJ/February 1, 2008 — Bendheim, North America's leading importer and fabricator of specialty architectural glass, has appointed Jen Miret of Fair Lawn, New Jersey, as communications manager.

Jen will be responsible for coordinating the company's internal and external communications, including advertising, public relations, trade show exhibitions, newsletter production and other marketing communications activities. She will also be administering the development of Bendheim's continuing education (CE) program for architects, designers and building professionals.

Jen comes to Bendheim from MIS Technologies, the Fair Lawn-based provider of dental implants, where she had been the company's marketing manager. Prior to that, she had been marketing manager for Dantec Dynamics, the Ramsey, New Jersey developer of integrated measurement systems for diagnostics and research.

Jen earned a Bachelor of Arts from Ramapo College of New Jersey, with a double major in international business and advertising design.

Founded in 1927, S.A. Bendheim Co., Inc. has become one of the world's foremost sources of specialty glass products. The third-generation, family-owned company develops, imports, processes, and ships its products worldwide. The glass is processed in-house, utilizing state-of-the-art machinery and sound environmental practices. Bendheim maintains more than 2,000 varieties of specialty decorative glass in its New Jersey and California facilities. Design professionals are welcome to visit the company's extensive showroom in Tribeca, New York City.
