David Draper appointed Chief Operating Officer at Binswanger Glass

MEMPHIS, TN: - Binswanger Glass, an industry-leading designer, installer, and retailer of architectural glass and aluminum products, has announced a change in its management team.

David Draper has been named Chief Operating Officer and will now oversee the day-to-day operations of Binswanger. Arturo Carrillo, Binswanger's President and Chief Executive Officer, is leaving the company to join its owner, Grey Mountain Partners.

Mr. Carrillo said, "My goal during the last several months of my time with Binswanger was to steward the company into the hands of quality new ownership. Once I accomplished that with the tremendous people from Grey Mountain Partners, I reassessed my future and really wanted to be in a position where I could have a larger impact on the investment and acquisition sides of the business world. I am thankful that I can do that now with GMP."

Mr. Draper, who had been Director of Strategic Planning at Robbins LLC., takes charge of a Binswanger Glass operation that spans 70 locations in 14 states. Grey Mountain Partners of Boulder, Colorado recently purchased Binswanger Glass, which was founded in 1872.

"I am thrilled to be joining a company with such a rich history. With the recent acquisition by Grey Mountain, we have a tremendous opportunity to re-establish the Binswanger brand as the leader in the glass services business."

Mr. Draper has Bachelor and Master degrees from University of North Alabama and aside from his past experience with Robbins (a Grey Mountain Partners affiliate company), also held a supervisory role at the Owens Corning OEM Solutions Group for several years.
