

Chuck Mowrey joins Carmel Architectural Sales

Anaheim, Calif. -- Carmel Architectural Sales announces Chuck Mowrey has joined the company as vice president of business development, offering exterior glazing and cladding systems and services to the southern California and Nevada commercial construction markets. Drawing from three decades of commercial construction leadership, Mowrey most recently served as president for Harmon, Inc., a national manufacturer of large-specification glazing with a single-source solution for their exterior building envelope needs. Based in Anaheim, Calif., the company works closely with designers, contractors and owners in California and Nevada. The Carmel team's involvement spans engineering, pre-construction, cost estimating, design assistance, project management, and installation of cladding and glazing systems for a sustainable, watertight, exterior.

Mowrey joins Carmel's executive management team, which includes CEO Dave Traino and company president Jim Henry. In this new role, Mowrey will contribute to sales and operations, helping with team growth and development, vendor sourcing, and new product expansion with its manufacturing partners.

Mowrey says, "Carmel's excels at partnering with quality vendors that help provide solutions to the construction team. Moreover, the company has exclusive agreements with key products and systems that help drive Carmel's business."

"Carmel has a remarkable track record, with practically zero warranty callbacks, due to strict adherence to high-quality products and workmanship," adds Mowrey. "I admire the fine organization that Dave, Jim and their team have built, and look forward to the challenge of helping them take their success to the next level."

As Harmon's president, Mowrey strengthened the company through customer-focused growth that included expansion into new markets and new product offerings. He also was responsible for increasing revenue and directing all areas of operation from IT to sales to manufacturing, across all stakeholders from union field workers to the board of directors, and overseeing all operational divisions from new construction to service to renovation.

Prior to his role as president, Mowrey was Harmon's vice president of business development where he was responsible for successfully leading the launch and national expansion of the Harmon Renovation business line. During his 21-year career with Harmon, Mowrey contributed to sales, marketing and operations management, including an eight-year Northern California assignment.

Mowrey earned a master's of arts in management and a bachelor's of science degree in business administration from St. Mary's University of Minnesota. He has completed additional coursework with the Center for Creative Leadership, Kent State University, University of Texas, University of Houston, and Georgetown University, as well as training in Six Sigma and Lean principles.
