PGC International Announces Two New Videos for Industry

(TOPEKA) - The Protective Glazing Council (PGC) International today announced a new video series debuting on its website, as well as the availability of a video presentation about the industry. Located at the new PGC International Video Section of its website at www.protectiveglazing.org/video, the new series titled "An Interview With..." features top experts and personalities from the protective glazing industry answering a variety of questions about the industry, PGC International, potential threats to building envelopes and future issues. The debut episode features an in-depth interview with Ron McCann, Director of Sales for Owatonna-based Viracon, as well as current President of PGC International.

"This series will focus on issues within the industry," said Brian Pitman, Director of Marketing and Communications for the organization. "Many of the questions our guests are posed include real-life concerns, such as why the protective glazing market is down, what the overwhelming sense of complacency by the Federal Government means to security, and even whether there is a need for PGC International to exist in contrast to similar efforts of other trade associations in the industry. Our viewers will find the answers enlightening and even compelling in many cases."

In addition to the new series, visitors will be able to watch the hour long presentation by Raj Goyal, a current member of the PGC International Board of Directors, about many aspects of the industry, including threats, applications and technologies, and technical standards and testing. The presentation, recorded at the recent glasstec trade show in Dusseldorf, also includes downloadable handouts for further information.

"Raj gave a great presentation in Germany," said Pitman. "It covers a great deal of information and has immediate value to many in the industry, including architects, glazing contractors, building owners, government officials, installers and more."

Additional educational presentations, as well as new episodes of "An Interview With..." will be posted to the website periodically. Viewers may also submit feedback to brian@protectiveglazing.org with comments and suggestions for future interviews and presentations.
