Tubelite Promotes Mary Olivier to Executive Team as Manager of Marketing and Client Services

Walker, Mich. -- Mary Olivier has been promoted to position of manager of marketing and client services at Tubelite Inc., supplier of architectural aluminum products for the commercial glass and glazing industry. In this new role, she joins the company's executive team, reporting directly to Tubelite's president Ken Werbowy and working in ongoing collaboration with Steve Green who continues as director of sales.

"Mary is an exceptional employee and exemplifies Tubelite's commitment to our customers," says Green, who previously served as Olivier's immediate supervisor. "I'm looking forward to working with her, side-by-side, as a trusted colleague."

With the prior title of client service manager, anticipating and responding to customer needs remains at the forefront of Olivier's thoughts and decision-making. For the past two years, she oversaw Tubelite's order entry and estimating teams. She will maintain responsibility for these areas in addition to the representatives associated with the company's marketing functions. Working closely with Werbowy, Green and the sales team, she will closely monitor industry trends, manage external and internal communications and methods, and help guide product development decisions.

Prior to joining Tubelite in 2006, she supported, implemented, supervised and managed critical training programs for DTE Energy, one of the nation's largest diversified energy companies.

Olivier earned a bachelor's degree in business marketing from Michigan State University and draws from past experience in Lean management practices and Green Belt certified training. She looks forward to pursuing professional development opportunities within the company, as well as through Tubelite's many affiliations such as the Construction Specifications Institute, Glass Association of North America, Michigan Glass Association, and U.S. Green Building Council.
