

Date Announced for Spring 2008 Window & Door Industry Update

Jordan, Knauff & Company, an investment bank in Chicago, Illinois, has announced that it will hold its Spring 2008 Window & Door Industry Update webinar on Thursday May 15, 2008, at 2 pm Eastern / 1 pm Central. This interactive online presentation will last roughly one hour, followed by a brief period for questions from attendees. Presenter Michael Collins will cover a variety of topics relevant to window and door industry executives and entrepreneurs. The topics to be covered will include an update of the firm's research into competition from Chinese companies, including a comparison of the rate of growth of window and door imports with imports of other building products. Also included will be a review of statistics regarding recent window and door transactions and plant expansions and the outlook for continued transaction activity in the industry. Mr. Collins will then cover the significant trends driving the market for windows, doors, skylights, overhead doors, sunrooms and other fenestration products. In closing, he will outline his short-term and long-term view of the window and door industry segment.

Participation in this presentation is complimentary. While attendees will have the opportunity to present questions to the moderator, attendance will be anonymous among participants. To register for this presentation, please visit the following:

www.jordanknauff.com/webinar

Alternatively, those interested in participating may contact Michael Collins at 312-254-5904 or mcollins@jordanknauff.com.