Fletcher-Terry Launches New Website.

July 22, 2008 – Farmington, CT – Fletcher-Terry is pleased to announce the launch of its new website. The user-friendly, interactive website is designed to enhance the customer's experience. Users will experience easy site navigation, always remaining on the home page, where a single click will link the visitor to complete product information, aided with an extended side navigation menu.

In addition to its already popular online spare parts purchasing feature, industrial customers will have the ability to identify a Fletcher-Terry part number that is compatible to the competitive cutting wheel, pillar post, insert or axle they are currently using. The site also offers product cross-over linking to assist customers with the best product choices based on which substrate they are cutting. For the sign and graphics visitors, the site offers an alliance page listing Fletcher partners who supply substrates to the industry. Fletcher-Terry distributors also have a home link to their own portal site where they can download product images and brochures at the click of a button.

Fletcher-Terry is one of the most diverse designers and manufacturers of equipment and hand cutting tools in the industry. It serves the sign, picture framing, retail hardware & glass trade, and glass product & fabrication industries worldwide. The company's world headquarters is located in Farmington, CT. To experience the new website, visit www.fletcher-terry.com.
