Lyle Hill Joins USGNN.com™/USGlass Magazine as Latest Blogger

STAFFORD, VA -- USGNN.com™ and USGlass magazine are pleased to welcome Lyle Hill as their newest blogger. Hill, managing director of Keytech North America, will contribute regularly to Blah, Blah ... Blog. His blog will appear on Wednesdays.

Hill says his blogs will be split into three sections and that he hopes they become interactive and his primary goal is to take an interesting glass industry character or two to lunch each week for conversation centered around what's happening within the industry.

"Candidly, I am really hoping they buy me lunch," Hill said when asked about his plans. Hill, who has more than 40 years of experience in the glass/metal industry is generally considered one of the country's premier authorities on contract glazing. Keytech North America provides research and technical services for the glass/metal industry.

Those interested in "Lunch with Lyle" can reach him at lhill@glass.com.
